Cat Gridders Begin Year With Big Win

By Gary Wood
Sports Editor

"This is a mighty good football team!" expressed two Western Michigan University scouts about BYU following the Cougars' 44-14 trouncing of New Mexico Saturday in their opening performance of the 1967 season.

Relying mainly on the passing of three quarterbacks playing their first varsity football, the Cat gridders scored twice in the first two quarters and three times in the final period to even the series of games with the Lobos at 8-8-1.

The Cougars now turn to preparation for a fitting encore to the auspicious start—they play host to Western Michigan Friday night.

LEAD WAC

The conference win over New Mexico boosts BYU into a tie with Wyoming for the Western Athletic Conference lead. The Cowboys are also 1-0 in league play following a 36-17 victory last week over Arizona.

A near-capacity crowd of 26,558 paying customers roared with appreciation as Coach Tom Hudspeth's gridders put on an impressive display of football strength and versatility.

Rarely in the recollection of most long-time observers of BYU grid efforts has a Cougar team played so near-flawlessly in an opening contest.

QB'S SHINE

The blue-clad Cougars rode the passing prowess of John Erdhaus and Marc Lyons and the great receiving of Phil Ode and Casey

Boyett to a 27-0 halftime lead and there was little doubt about the outcome though the Lobos

Service is an important aspect of LDS living and has been an important factor in the life of Elder Boyd K. Packer, speaker at Tuesday's devotional in the Smith Field House.

Born Sept. 10, 1924 in Brigham City, Elder Packer did undergraduate work at Weber State College and Washington State University before receiving his BA degree from Utah State University in 1949. He was awarded his MA degree in education from the Case Graduate Institution in 1953 and completed the requirements for his doctorate of education at BYU in 1964.

Elder Packer is greatly concerned with the education and understanding of today's young people. His life has been directly involved with service to LDS youth, having assisted in the supervision of over 85,000 students in Church

Provo In More Hot Water At Utah Lake

By Larry Wright
University Staff Writer

The City Commission has got into hot water again. This is it's real water—several millions of it. It's Utah Lake. July 5th the area was renamed Utah Lake State Park as it was taken over by the state of Utah. "The City Commission held public hearings for week," explains LeRoy Dennis of the City Parks and Recreation Commission, "and proposed to sell the salt harbor." The state then offered to buy it and make it a state park, so the sale was made.

The state's plans for development included dredging a longer walkway and making a sandy beach on the south side of the pier. Also slated are an expanded picnic area and overnight camping facilities.

MILLION DOLLAR BUDGET
The budget allocated $100,000 for immediate development, and about $1,000,000 to be used over next ten years to maintain these developments, an entrance fee of $1 per car, $7 for a season, is now being charged at the lake.

The only fly in the ointment was pointed out by an official of the recently formed park. "The city hasn't terminated all the leases of building owners at the lake, and so none of the development has started."

BOAT CLUB LEASE

One of these building owners is the Provo Boat Club. A member and former Commodore said that the club members are waiting only for settlement of the lease held by the city.

And the city says that it's waiting for the state to settle it. "I guess the State Parks Commission will have to get together with the Provo City Commission," explained Floyd Giles of the Provo Recreation Commission.

While one city official said hopefully that the lease transfer "should take place within a couple of weeks," outside observers were less enthusiastic: "The city officials are politicians—it could take forever."

It has been close to three months since the park began operation. And almost three months of entrance fees for maintaining the new developments. People are wondering when the development will begin.

TOUCHY SITUATION

How does the city feel now? A Provo Recreation official declined to answer that question with these words: "It's a pretty touchy situation with some people who might be getting in hot water."

Parking Protection

ASBYU President Paul Gilbert has asked car-owning students to register at the table in the Wilkinson Center step-down lounge to obtain protection from the Provo ordinance prohibiting parking on streets between 2 a.m. and 5 a.m.

Student must register between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

President Ernest Wilkinson recently offered a possible solution to the parking problem.

He said students with on-campus parking stickers could park in university areas for 24 hours a day if they wished.

Rangers now charge a $1 fee to visitors entering Utah Lake State Park. The lake was sold to the state during the summer and fees will go towards development of the park. However, no development has started yet.

Gov't Looks Good

Editorials . . .

Talk About All Wet...

Abe Lincoln was fond of asking! "How many legs has a dog if you call his tail a leg?"

"Five," came the reply.

"None—four," retorted the storyteller.

"Calling a tail a leg doesn't make it one."

He could have said a lake instead of a dog, because calling it a state park doesn't make one.

And we think it should be one.

The area known as Utah Lake State Park isn't much different than it was a year ago. Some weeds were cleared and a few trash cans have been moved in. But it's the same old place. Except that the park is now charging a buck a car to get in.

Why charge a dollar?

When the state builds the proposed sandy beach, and puts in the picnic area on both sides of the river and provides for overnight camping, then it will be worth paying for.

We don't believe in getting something for nothing but we do believe in getting something for something.

We believe we should have a state park if we pay an entrance fee. So we suggest that the City Commission smarten up and get the titles transferred so the state can build its park.

Another thing.

A local radio commentator recently charged that Provo seems to be unaware that it is a college town that this city should wake up and realize a few things. He was speaking specifically of the parking problem.

We are also speaking of a park problem when we complain that the City Commission doesn't seem to care about us.

If it did, it would realize that an entrance fee of $1 is steep for a student at BYU. City officials or our own student body officers, should meet with the State Recreation and Parks Commission at their conference on October 9th and present some ideas. Wouldn't it be feasible for students with activity cards to gain entrance at a reduced rate?

We think we deserve the consideration. L.W.

To The Health Of BYU

On Page One of the Universe there is an article dealing with the freshman health textbook.

Seems certain people feel that information in that text is not suitable for BYU students. As a result the bookstore is cutting out page 361. It should be noted that this is a bookstore policy—but instructions from different authority.

The page deals with individual sex habits and the author's opinion is diverse from the concepts of Mormonism.

We feel that the practice of censoring a book with scissors after it has been published is dangerous and inconsistent with the academic aims of BYU.

Five reasons why we do not agree with this scissor censorship are:

- Students are denied exposure to the full spectrum of the author's thoughts. (Granted, we may not agree with this thought but we should be able to discuss it intelligently so that we may cope with the problem it might create.)

- Any student who mutilates texts from the library runs the risk of serious punishment... and this seems only right. But if we allow our textbooks to be censored how can the library enforce its policy. A student's defense can simply be: "Oh, that book was naughty...."

It is not fair to sell the text for a new price when it does not contain all the pages and thought the author and publisher intended to convey.

● The censorship only serves to what people's appetite as to what is on the bawdier page.

● It sets a dangerous precedent for an institution which is dedicated to academic research and enlightenment.

These are only some of the reasons we are firmly against the practice now being condoned by some in connection with the freshman health text.

Alternative solutions to the problem include either adding text or possibly stamping the offending page to the effect that it contains thoughts which are not in accordance with church standards.

We are pleased to see Dr. Watters has promised that the health text for the spring semester will be available in an unabridged form.

Here at BYU, teachers recognize that the truth we have can stand against the fallacies of the world.

Thus when texts—which we do not agree with—arrive on this campus, we should not be afraid to read and discuss the full contents of the books. J.S.B., s.g.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NEW FORMAT?

Editor:

Somehow, I feel, the "traditional welcome assembly" fell short of being traditional.

I doubt that the inclusion of "orientation material" (e.g., dress standard's skits, student body officer introductions etc.), and, consequently, exclusion of traditional friendly rivalries, slinging, cheering, etc. offered a recommendable format for next year's assembly.

SORRY ABOUT THAT

Editor:

My congratulations to the author of the "Romney Might Make It" editorial, published in your Thursday edition. I didn't think it was possible to get an editorial written on such a low-level published in a major university newspaper.

I, too, think Romney might be a good Republican candidate for the Presidency. As pointed out, Romney's qualifications are many. But, can a serious-minded journalist really sum up the qualifications of other possible candidates? Is such irrelevant terms as "a-grade B movie actor" and a "divorced one-time primary campaigner?"

This type of reasoning in a university newspaper? Really?? Michael L. Flewelling

Editor's Note: We agree in part with the above letter. We were unfair in branding Romney opponents as "grade-B movie actors" and "divorced, one-time primary campaign losers."

The title of the editorial reads: "Romney might make it." Whether or not Romney makes it even in the primaries, time can only tell. However, we feel that he would make a good president and we base this opinion on the man's record and integrity.

FREE FORUM

Free Forum, designed to allow each student to present his ideas, complaints, and opinions on current events will print its first issue on Sept. 27-28, Wednesday at noon on the west patio, Wilkinson Center.

The issue discussed will be "Off Campus Parking." Anyone desiring to speak must sign his name at the beginning of the program. He will be allowed 5 minutes, after which he must submit to questioning from the audience. The Academics Office invites each student to participate and reminds all that the usual laws applying to slander and libel will be in effect.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Walter Reuther, president of United Auto Workers and a leading union liberal, endorsed President Johnson Sunday for re-election.

Reuther, at the same time, indicated for the first time UAW's contract demand in its current strike, which will end Ford Motor Co. plants since Sept. 6, would cost workers $1,123 billion over three years. He mentioned an average of 30 cents per hour.

Reuther said he favored Johnson over anyone from his party now being mentioned as a possible candidate, including Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

RUSK URGES SANCTIONS AGAINST CUBA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Saturday that the free world allies such as France, Britain, Japan and Spain sever their trade ties with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

He told a meeting of Latin American foreign ministers this and other steps should be taken to "isolate Cuba as a society of free men" as long as the Castro regime is on its tactics of subversion and terrorism against countries of the hemisphere.

DISPUTE PROLONGS TEACHERS' STRIKE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The leader of 50,000 striking public school teachers declared Sunday he would extend the walkout by three days because of a dispute over contract wordings of three policy issues.

Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers (UFT), made the statement as Mayor John V. Lindsay attempted to bring both sides together with a mediator renewed negotiations. A mass meeting of teachers concluded for late Sunday.

Former ZCMI Executive To Address Symposium

The recently retired sales promotion manager of one of the West's oldest department stores will address a Department of Communications Symposium Monday at 4:10 p.m. in 184 Jesse Knight Bldg.

Ted Bushman, the speaker, was in charge of advertising, public relations, publicity and special events for ZCMI in Salt Lake City for 17 years prior to his retirement a few months ago.

Besides a long history which dates into Mormon pioneer days, ZCMI has won numerous national awards for sales promotion activities. In the past few years the store won the National Brand Name Retailer-of-the-Year on two occasions.

A native of Provo and former student at BYU, Mr. Bushman spent five years as an account executive and partner in a Portland advertising agency. For eight years he was an art director and assistant advertising manager in a large department store in that same city.

The meeting Monday is open to all students and faculty.

Budget Battle . . .

How To Eat Cheaply Is Students Problem

By Camilla Miner
Culture Editor

(Editor's Note: This is the introduction to a series of articles on the student budget battle.)

Hundreds of off-campus students, single men and women and couples, are trying to save money on food and stay alive at the same time.

Advice on how-to-do-it is floating around campus. Everyone has his own special shortcut or trick in his attempt to win the coat-of-living-with-a-student's-money battle.

The skinny boys are probably doing their own cooking. However, the term is used loosely. After helping a boy shop I strongly suspect that if it can be opened with a can opener and spread on a slice of bread, it qualifies for the shopping list. Otherwise, no. Eggs are as close as such shoppers get to basic ingredients.

I know one boy who cooks without a stove or even a fireplace. He has a very simple heater, however, and, I might add, a refrigerator. Whenever he gets a craving for warm food, he fills the sink full of hot water and sets a can in it for 20 minutes.

He's been surviving a week and from all indications he'll make it through the year. Since he gets invited out to eat occasionally, he might not even lose weight.

Girls have just as difficult a time making ends meet. If the thin girls you know in high school are getting rounder you know that they solved the money problem by buying macaroni and potatoes.

At the end of the week when there is only bread and potatoes in the cupboard the meal may become a starch delight.

Never having entered into the wedded bliss myself, I'm not sure what married couples do to meet the money problem. Maybe they live on love.

seminaries and institutes of religion.

Elder Packer has served as a seminary instructor, the coordinator of Indian Affairs at the Intermountain School in Brigham City, and as assistant to the vice-administrator of the Unified Church School System. In August of 1961 Elder Packer was appointed to the Administrative Council of Brigham Young University.

Before being called to assist the Council of the Twelve, Elder Packer served as the Superintendent of seminaries and institutes for the Church. At 43, Elder Packer is one of the youngest men ever called to serve as a General Authority.

Nine children complete the Packer family portrait along with his charming wife, Donna.

The youthful church leader is also a recipient of the distinguished Service Award of the Brigham City Junior Chamber of Commerce. He served his community as a member of the Brigham City Council for four years and was a six-year member of the North Utah Stake High Council.

Elder Packer's Tuesday address will be covered by closed circuit TV and may be seen in the Joseph Smith Auditorium or the de Jong Concert Hall in the Harris Fine Arts Center. The sound portion of the assembly can be heard in the Varsity Theater in the Wilkinson Center.

Arts Published

Are you a frustrated artist? Now's your chance to be published.

Intercollegiate Arts Affiliated is currently compiling an anthology of the arts being produced on college campuses.

The anthology is designed to display to students and critics alike the temper and cross section of creativity in colleges and universities across the country.

Entries are now being accepted in the following fields:

- Poetry
- Sketches and Graphic Art
- Photography (max. size 4x6)
- Film Criticism (max. 500 words)

Henry Alan Paper, Editor-in-Chief, announced that only quality material will be accepted. All applicants will be notified of acceptance or rejection by Nov. 6. Entries will be returned only if accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope. The best entry in each field will be awarded a subscription to the cultural journal of the entrant's choice.

Deadline for entries is Oct. 31. The address is Intercollegiate Arts Affiliated, Box 601, 5541 South Everett, Chicago, IL 60637.

Skyroom dancing will follow Friday's football game.

First Of 12 Skyroom Dances Scheduled

Atmosphere of many nations will prevail as the international flags decorate the Skyroom, Friday after the football game.

The event, a dance sponsored by the Social Office, themed "All Over the World," features a variety of the dances announced that a hundred tickets will be sold at $2 per couple. They will go on sale Monday at the main desk of the Wilkinson Center and sales will close Thursday at 3 p.m.

ook loose from their lethargy the second half, Coach Bill Weeks' Wolfpack, a 3 victor over Idaho State the previous weekend, got on the scoreboard with two touchdowns the third period, but the Cougars came back with sophomore goal-caller Terry Sanford at the line to ice the game in the final minute.

The 6-0, 160-lb, Salt Lake City product set up two scores on keepers around end, hitting fellow ph John Peterson for seven and 13-yard touchdown passes. Former Cougar track star Den-Patera added a 33-yard field goal in that fourth quarter and was good on five of six PAT attempts in the game. He also scored several long kickoffs. The BYU punting game caused such favorable comment as Wes Amolik averaged 44 yards on ten punts.

COACH PRAISES

Coach Hudspeth heaped praise on all who contributed to the triumph, but had special commendation for the defensive forward all and his trio of quarterbacks. "Our defensive football players did an outstanding job out there," he effused, naming each of them individually.

Though the Y defenders gave up 386 yards passing, they toughed it out.

IBM

KEY PUNCH COURSE

OCTOBER 7, 1967 to NOVEMBER 18, 1967

Saturdays only — 8:00-11:00, 11:00-2:00 & 2:00-5:00

This class covers the basic procedures concerned with operating a key-punch machine. Specifically, the items taught in the class include, numeric punching, alpha punching, and alph-numeric punching in the same field. Exercises used in the classes are sample payroll summaries, addresses, and number exercises.

Early registration is urged due to limited registrations. Registration is now taking place at the Office of Special Courses and Conferences, Room 242 Herald R. Clark Building. Phone 374-1211, Ext. 3556.

TRAVEL STUDY
 Students planning on participating in any of BYU's semester abroad programs (Jerusalem, Salzburg and Grenoble) should notify the Travel Study Department no later than 4 p.m. today to report their current addresses and phone numbers. Failure to do this may result in delay of vital information meaning the difference of being able to participate. Contact the Travel Study Department, Ext. 2717, 200 HRBC.

Y AMERICANS

Men students are still needed to form part of the Sounds of Freedom group (formerly called Y Americans). Auditions will be today from 4 to 7 p.m. in ballroom five, Wilkinson Center. Bring your own music.

"PACESETTER"

OPEN MON. & FRI. TILL 9:00

Loretta Luce can read an entire book while sipping a drink in the campus cafeteria. She reads faster than 5,000 words per minute.

Loretta is a BYU sophomore. Although she always has been a better than average reader, she decided she wanted more time for extra-curricular activities.

So she took the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics course—with truly dramatic results.

Her speed with light reading increased from 462 words per minute to 5,690. And with even better comprehension. But what really pleases her is the way she can now race through her homework.

You have to see it to believe it.

Reading the "old" way—word by word or phrase by phrase—you can never attain really rapid speeds. But when you train your eye to move down the page and read "chunks" of text at a glance, there's almost no limit to the amount of material you can cover.

If it's hard to understand, here's a simple analogy: when you drive a car, you don't consciously look at everything on the road. Your eye takes in the whole scene at a glance and your mind processes the material to tell you what to do.

Or it's like looking at the photograph above. You don't see just a girl and a book—you see the whole picture as a total impression.

So why do we tend to read slowly?

We're trained to hear every word we read, and see each word in sequence. Until recently, nobody believed it could be done any other way. It took Evelyn Wood almost twenty years of study to evolve a new reading technique that allows you to read at unusually high rates with no sacrifice of comprehension or reading enjoyment. There's no trick. And there's no mystery. We show you what to do, and you practice until the new habit is formed.

You can do it, too!

You probably have one more question—is Loretta an exceptional reader? Not really. Just take a look at the beginning and ending speeds of typical graduates.

Improvement by typical graduates in words per minute.
